

ACROSS the DESK

From The Suburban Life, Essex Junction, Vermont: The records of history show all too plainly the inevitable fall of many great civilizations. The Titans of the past, the Greeks and then the Romans had their days of enlightened leadership of contributions to the progress of mankind, of greatness and dignity. And then decay, not from the enemies from without but from softness, corruption and rot within.

In all modern history the American civilization has come to represent the greatest advances in the story of mankind, particularly in the importance and dignity of the individual human being.

Does the advent of Sputnik I and II portend the end of another great civilization? Are there signs of the same decay that spelled the end for Greece and Rome? Are we on the way to self-destruction through softness, corruption, internal jealousies and bickerings?

These questions may seem far-fetched, but they have been asked by responsible, serious, non-partisan individuals who have been greatly shaken by the enormous scientific advances made by the Russians in recent weeks.

Without reaching the panic stage, we believe that we should subject ourselves to thorough self-examination and ask where we are going? Have our desires for comfort, ease and security blinded us and diverted us from the path of strength and world leadership? Cold facts reveal that the lead in scientific advancement and conquest for outer space has passed, temporarily at least, to unfriendly, and worse, irresponsible hands. These facts call for and to jealousy, bickering and rivalry, an end to small thinking, and an end to soft living at the expense of self-preservation.

From The Independent, Fagway, Springs, N. C.: The moon is a dead satellite without oxygen or water, and over provided with extremes of temperature. But it may not be doomed to stay that way forever. I. M. Levitt, a planetary director, thinks that man may make it bloom into a place that is habitable.

The moon has many rocks similar to those on earth, contains water. These rocks could be ground up by atomic-powered machines, Levitt believes. And then they could be baked, releasing their water in a vaporized state. If this were one of the basic necessities for survival, the other essential would come by subjecting the water to ultra-violet radiation, thus breaking it up into oxygen.

Economic Highlights

happenings that affect the future of every individual — National and International Problems inseparable from Local Welfare.

"Monopoly power may be described as the possession of power by an individual or a group to control the supply and fix the price of needed goods and services. On this basis, there can be no doubt that certain international unions possess monopoly powers in some of the basic industries of the United States. They virtually control the labor supply of these industries and have proved on many occasions their ability to dictate the terms on which the services of labor are available to produce the goods and services the nation needs."

That is the first paragraph of a pamphlet entitled "Monopoly Power as Exercised by Labor Unions," which has been issued by the National Association of Manufacturers, and is the result of a year's study by a group of labor-management experts under the chairmanship of Lee Wolman, the distinguished Columbia University teacher and writer. It is a work which is of unusual interest now in the light of the greatly aroused public interest in labor problems and policies.

The pamphlet's thesis is that the power of the unions is virtually without legal restraint, that this is something that was never intended by Congress, and that it has come about largely as a result of a series of judicial and administrative decisions. A principal cause of union monopoly power, it argues, is that the labor unions have become immune from legal responsibility to which everyone else is subject — namely the anti-trust laws. To take a specific example, these laws hold that boycotts by businessmen are violations of trade and commerce laws. But the unions can and do demand and obtain contracts under which non-union employers are boycotted. And, the pamphlet goes on, the unions freely divide territories and restrict business competition—something which businessmen cannot do on pain of severe penalties at the hands of the law.

The pamphlet describes a number of specific cases in which, in the opinion of its authors, the unions, with impunity, have successfully followed courses of action that would be plainly illegal if followed by other groups. Such exercises of monopoly power fall into a number of classifications. These include: restraints of trade and price fixing; dividing territory; regional monopolies; banning of new products or processes; featherbedding; restricting competition; deliberately keeping the labor supply short; jurisdictional strikes and boycotts; coercion and compulsion of workers. It quotes Lester Velle, a well-known student of labor affairs, as saying: "The Internationale's dogma is as ruthless as they are varied. . . . Virtually none of union constitutions has even a rudimentary bill of rights to protect members."

The pamphlet ends by laying a series of objectives which, it says, must be sought in order to protect the public and the workers. The main points include real bargaining at the local level; an end to compulsory union membership in any form; bans on boycotts, featherbedding, and refusal to allow new machines or processes and a prohibition against the use of union funds and union staff employees for partisan political purposes. The big goal as the authors of this work see it, is to bring about recognition that responsibility goes hand in hand with authority and reverence for individual rights goes hand in hand with power.

OVERSIMPLIFYING LIFE

On 1000th Avenue, Javert, the Christian. He is one of the leading characters in Victor Hugo's famous novel "Les Misérables."

Javert had been born in prison, and he grew up with a consuming hatred of crime and criminals. He never let his mind rest from the thought of his work to hunt down lawbreakers, and so that they were branded "There are only two kinds of people in the world," he often said. "Those on the side of the law, and those against it. He who is simple to find those against the law and punish them."

But at the climax of the book, Javert makes a startling discovery: that life was not as simple as he had imagined. People are not either law or crime, but in some cases a blend of the two. He had come to his senses that he had been pursuing good people, who had made mistakes, or had been victims of circumstances. He realized that he had been over-simplifying life.

When Javert died, it was not because he was over-simplified, but because he had tried to live by a code that was too simple. He had been a man of great courage and loyalty, but he had been too simple in his thinking. He had been a man of great courage and loyalty, but he had been too simple in his thinking. He had been a man of great courage and loyalty, but he had been too simple in his thinking.

AUTOMATION'S FIRST ENEMY

REVISING THE MAIL RATES

Top officials of the post office department are again advocating higher mail rates. For instance, Hyde Gillette, an assistant postmaster general, speaking in Portland, Oregon, said that the department's deficit will reach $700 million this year. He approved a bill which has passed the House and will be considered by the Senate next session. Under it, there would be a 1-cent increase in first class letter postage; a 50 per cent increase in second class mail rates over a four-year period; a 50 per cent increase in third class rates over a two-year period, and a 1-cent increase in air mail postage.

There is certainly plenty of evidence that post office charges should be revised upward, whatever the precise percentages. And this reform should not stop with the regular mail services. Parcel post—which falls into the fourth class mail classification—has also been a heavy and consistent producer of deficits. Moreover, the argument that the mails serve a basic public need in the fields of information, education and general enlightenment, and hence should not necessarily be self-supporting, certainly cannot logically be applied to parcel post. It is purely a commercial package-carrying service, operating in competition with private enterprise. If it were completely out of business tomorrow, private enterprise would do the job efficiently, swiftly, and at a fair price. And private enterprise pays its own way and pays taxes to boot.

Another bill before Congress (S. 1108) calls for rate reforms aimed at making parcel post financially self-sustaining — instead of a taxpayer-subsidized service. What can be wrong with that?

What can be wrong with that?

WINTER FORAGE BEING STRESSED IN GREEN PASTURES PROGRAM

Present plans call for much more stress being laid on winter forage in Maine and New England Green Pastures Programs in the next few months. Dairyman will have their hay and silage inspected for quality and quantity, says Ralph Corbett, Extension dairyman, University of Maine.

TODAY'S Meditation

Thursday, December 5
Read Malachi 2:1-6 or
John 8:12-21

For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. (John 3:16)

CROSSING the Pacific Ocean by ship from San Francisco to Australia, I went up on deck near midnight to look for the Southern Cross in a wind-tossed sky. Suddenly a sea pigeon, attracted by the lights of the ship, flew on board. It was very tired and nestled without resistance in my hand. It had been blown and buffeted by the winds. Finally it had sought refuge on the great, pulsing bulkwork of the ocean liner.

I thought how similar this tiny yet so brave bird was to man. He is tossed and thrown about on the vast waters of the ocean of life. But he can find refuge in the Christian faith with the living example of Jesus Christ as the pilot. Christ can carry man safely through; He is God's fulfillment of the promise of the prophets. Man has only to seek Him who is the Light and thus find security of the Christian faith.

Prayer
Our Father, we thank Thee for the coming of Christ as foretold by the prophets. We thank Thee for the coming of Thy beloved Son into the world. Help us to confess to Thee our sins and accept Christ's salvation. For His sake. Amen.

MAINE NPFF TESTINGS

RUNNING AHEAD OF 1956
Maine testings of birds for pullorum and typhoid disease under the National Poultry Improvement Plan are running ahead of 1956 for the first nine months of 1957. Dr. R. F. Hitchner, of the University of Maine, says testers have tested 1,201,724 birds in the nine months, some 100,000 more than last year. Birds in flocks in the NPPI program throughout the United States reached an all-time high of more than 35 million last June 30. They are in some 67,000 flocks. Flock owners in 47 states are taking part in the program of breeding improvement and the control and eradication of pullorum and typhoid of poultry.

GIANT VERMONT SPRUCE DECORATES

A 47-foot white spruce, chosen for the decoration of Rockefeller Center New York City, was cut on the farm of Maurice Plante near Grand Pond, Vt., last Wednesday. The tree is the gift of the State of Vermont to Rockefeller Plant. The huge tree, which had a spread of 37 feet, was tied while meaning being read by the First and Second. This was followed by a series of hymns and responsive readings from the Bible. The service was a beautiful and inspiring one. The tree was brought out the powerful blessing of gratitude. Testimonies of answered prayer, suitable to the occasion, were given by Christian Scientists. The closing hymn was "New thank we all our God." The meeting closed with the reading of the Scientific Statement of the Christian Science movement, followed by a benediction.

Transportation to New York City was over a route marked by the Vermont Department of Highways and the New York Department of Public Works and the New York State Thruway Authority. The tree was accompanied by a state police escort in both states. The journey of the Scientific Statement of the Christian Science movement, followed by a benediction.

WASHINGTON

I sold my GI house for reasons of health. My GI loan eligibility has been restored by VA. Now, do I have to use this restored entitlement to buy another house, or may I use it for a GI business loan?

You may use it for a business loan, or it may be used for any purpose authorized by law: a home loan, farm loan or business loan.

Is there a new Senate Office building under construction in Washington?

Yes, it is almost completed at a cost of $17,500,000. Site and equipment will run the cost to about $31,700,000. A third house office building also is under construction to cost approximately $15 million.

I read in the paper that Queen Elizabeth and her party were served luncheon in the old Supreme Court room. Is that in the Supreme Court Building?

No. It is on the Senate floor of the Capitol building, about midway between the House and Senate chambers.

Of what material is the original part of the U. S. Capitol Building constructed?

It is sandstone which came from quarries owned by the government at Aquia Creek, Va.

Is all news media represented in the Capital Press gallery?

Yes, representatives of daily newspapers and press associations serving daily paper; Representatives of Radio and TV stations and networks serving radio and TV stations; periodicals, including magazines, trade publications, and weekly newspapers, and photographers and news photo services.

SCHOOL NEWS

Grade 4—Miss Ballard

The following have not missed a day of school for the first thirteen weeks: Rachel Keniston, Jack McMullin, Eric Sessions, Raymond Tripp. The following have been absent only one day: Michael Bates, Martha Laws, Judith Mason, John Poland, Ruth Wilton, Eugene West, Leigh and Merry York. We are glad to have better attendance this week after having had five out with mumps.

Grade 5 Elbeth Kimball sprained her wrist. She had to have a bandage. The writing teacher is coming Wednesday. Today is the first day that we have had perfect attendance since October 8. We got our globes in arithmetic—Reporters, Alan Newton, Charles Runkels.

Grade 6—Miss Varnier Our class has been divided into ten groups of three members each to make a display on the bulletin board on the ten Canadian provinces. Mildred Kimball brought a round phonograph record which was used on an old fashioned victrola. We are glad our attendance has improved as we have had 100% for Monday and Tuesday. Miss O'Connor will be here for our writing lesson on Wednesday. Last Wednesday afternoon we invited Mrs. Lord's sixth grade to come to our room for a get-together. —Reporter, Wayne Andrews.

Grade 7—E. Lord Last week before Thanksgiving Ill.

We made a display and a program for this occasion. In Science we all are making a special report on something. We have had two reports so far. Social studies is an interesting subject most of us find. For the past week we have been studying Morocco. Christmas is a long holiday so we have started to plan already. We have a committee which is as follows: Sue Kneeland, Sheila Roberts, Buddy Carver, Trafton Foster and Stephen Dock. Darlene Morrill has been sick but she is back with us now. Don Parker and Roy Brown are out sick. We all have book-reports to make the 12th of December. —Reporter, Sue Kneeland.

Grade 8 We all just got back to school after a long, four day week end of Thanksgiving. We all had a good time. Miss O'Connor, the writing teacher came Tuesday for the upper grades. She will be here again Wednesday to rank the lower grades. She wrote on all of the blackboard, Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, in fancy writing. It is very good. In English the 8th grade is taking up clauses. It isn't too hard if everyone would just pay attention. The seventh and eighth grades will play their first game of basketball for the season, at Errol, Friday night. —Reporters, Elizabeth Waldron and Pat McMullin.

Arnold Turner, So. Paris, Wins Cucumber Contest

Arnold Turner of South Paris was judged winner in the 4-H cucumber growing contest which was started this year in cooperation with the Oxford Pickle Co. For being first in the contest Arnold received a bicycle which was donated by the Oxford Pickle Co.

Arnold, who is 12 years of age, attends South Paris Junior high and his favorite hobbies are fishing and baseball. He has been in 4-H club work two years, as a member of Mrs. Irene Haggood's "Ready Workers" and has taken the 4-H Cucumber and two Foods projects. This year he exhibited cucumbers at two fairs and cooked at three fairs and received three ribbons for all his exhibits.

In the spring Arnold signed a contract with the pickle company to sell his cukes to them, as the 4-H project required. He sold 1,700 pounds of small cucumbers off his 1 1/2 acre plot growing him $12.25, which figures out to $8.16 on an acre basis.

Traffic Accidents Cost Over $7 Billion in 1957

The nation has been handed its 1957 traffic bill by Thomas M. Doate, manager of the Accident Prevention Department of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, and it came to a staggering grand total of $7,250,000,000.

That is the estimated cost of a single year's traffic mayhem based on figures for the first nine months of this year and a projection through Dec. 31. It is the highest figure in the history of the automobile.

The per capita share borne by each of the nation's 171,700,000 citizens amounts to $42.22. Mr. Doate said, "while the cost for a family of four is $168.88. Included in the sum are charges for property damage, automobile repair, legal and medical fees, insurance expenses and loss of income through absence from work."

"He added that in assessing this bill the nation's traffic losses will reach an estimated total of $8,300 deaths, 1,800,000 injuries and 11,700,000 accidents. An extended period of bad weather during the month of December could reduce that toll some by reducing the number of cars on the highway. However, he said, the usual annual rush of holiday shoppers and seasonal celebrations will make December once again the deadliest month of the year.

While deaths will be below the all-time high set in 1954, accidents and injuries, like the dollars and cents are continuing their steady climb and will reach new high levels. Mr. Doate said that this steady increase in the total traffic casualty experience exposes the error of measuring highway safety progress solely on traffic death figures.

As for the 1957 "bill" charged up to every man, woman and child in the country, Mr. Doate said that they can be marked paid when the cost of accidents is met on a pay-as-you-go basis. However, he pointed out that this is small consolation since, as matters stand, every citizen can expect to share in this excessive waste in increasing each year for the rest of his life.

"These losses will continue," Mr. Doate said, "until we are ready and willing to pay reasonably for safe driving and driver conduct through effective enforcement, engineering and education and until each individual accepts his personal responsibility for complete obedience to the traffic rules."

The safety authority added that until these measures with a realization of the danger and a strong will to live have the best chance of reducing accidents the people he said will keep their heads on their driving and not take small risks to save time and will not violate common sense and driving after drinking.

That is particularly important in a country where, as he said, 10 percent of the population are not in the armed forces.

Patients who are considered seriously ill may have two visitors at any time of the day or night unless in the opinion of the medical staff visitors would be detrimental to the patient's health.

Other patients may have not more than two visitors at any one time during visiting hours.

BIG CHRISTMAS TREE

PLANT TO HOLLYWOOD

A huge Maine Christmas tree will stand in Hollywood this holiday season as a symbol of friendship between the people of Maine and the motion picture industry.

The 27-foot balsam fir which was sent this week will be erected at the Fox Beverly Theater in Beverly Hills prior to the Hollywood premiere of "Feynman Place" which was filmed last summer in Maine. The tree donated by the Maine Christmas Tree Growers Association, was cut on the tree farm of Kenneth North of North Leeds trucked to Boston and flown to California.

Pedestrians should remember that reduced visibility adds in the danger of walking on the roadway. This time of year, each day brings less daylight and more darkness. Whenever possible, our Maine Highway Safety Committee cautions, we should walk on sidewalks. If we find it absolutely necessary to walk in the road, we should walk on the left facing oncoming traffic. Remember, during hours of dusk and darkness, it is much easier for you to see a car than it is for the driver of the car to see you. Be alert and don't rely upon the driver to protect you. He may not even see you!

The younger generation is headed would do well to consider where it came from."

1958 March of Dimes

To Support Rehabilitation Program

Plans for a $4,900,000 March of Dimes drive next January, primarily to support a massive rehabilitation program for thousands of disabled polio victims and to intensify the basic research programs of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, are announced by Mrs. Norma Jodrey. She made the disclosure on her return from a meeting in Boston with some 200 March of Dimes volunteer workers from the New England States.

Mrs. Jodrey said that the 1958 March of Dimes would be conducted chiefly for the care and rehabilitation of the thousands of post-polio patients in the United States for whom "survival is not enough." She said that dramatic new advances in the field of rehabilitation now make it possible for many persons whose horizons once stretched no further than a wheelchair or an iron lung to return to useful daily living.

Mrs. Jodrey said that in addition to the costly patient-care program, the March of Dimes will seek continued support for its professional program which has already given training of many varieties to more than 6,000 doctors, nurses, therapists and other professional workers. Plans for a greatly expanded research program also were outlined. The March of Dimes leader noted that in the 20 years since the first March of Dimes, its research grants which sponsored the development of the Salk vaccine, have also led to unprecedented advances in the once mysterious field of virus research. Virologists supported by the March of Dimes have made significant discoveries not only about polio and polio-related diseases but about many other afflictions of man as well.
